

Assessments.com: A proven leader

Assessments.com: the most advanced risk assessment and automated case planning system available today. Here are a few excerpts from client letters which might give you some ideas about how Assessments.com could effectively collaborate with you and your organization.

Assessments.com hosts, manages and stores all of our juvenile risk assessment data on their servers and the information is always secure and available to our staff. The strong reporting functionality is especially useful for aggregating data in a myriad of ways for management purposes... Indeed, the Assessments.com system works sufficiently well for our juveniles, that we are beginning to work with the company to provide an automated risk assessment tool for use with our adults as well. I can and do recommend Assessments.com for the services they provide and the professionalism and responsiveness with which they provide it.

Paul Higa, Chief Probation Officer
Los Angeles County

Assessments.com has established credibility in our state at both the development and implementation stages. Their ability to transform the product from a county-administered system to a state-operated system the size of Florida's demonstrates an exceptional working knowledge and capacity. We are beginning to see the benefits to our youth in terms of changing attitudes and better placements and to our employees who are working smarter, maintaining more information in electronic form and spending less time on case processing duties.

Darryl Olson, Assistant Secretary, Probation and Community Corrections
Florida Department of Juvenile Justice

With the help of Assessments.com, we were able to move some of our legacy data from an old mainframe green-screen environment to a much more robust and user-friendly web-based system that takes full advantage of current technology... Perhaps the best example of our confidence in Assessments.com is reflected in our continued expansion of the system. We have gone from an assessment tool to a series of intake screens and reports, to a complex restitution and fee module. Currently, we are involved in a cooperative effort with the Board of Crime Control to have Assessments.com build us a whole new juvenile detention module within our system.

It has been remarkable, I think, as to what we have jointly accomplished within the last few years. Our partnership has helped direct our case planning and program development with our clients. We can now match clients to appropriate interventions. Additionally, it gives us the capability to evaluate outcomes of our programs and services.
